We have reviewed your progress under the Ticket to Work Program from March 1, 2004 through March 1, 2005 and found that you have not met the requirements for the first 12-month timely progress review. This is because:

One or more of these boxes will be checked

- You have not worked and earned at or above the substantial gainful activity level for at least 3 out of the 36 months that you were using your ticket and it was assigned. This amount is \$830.00 for 2005.
- You and ABC EMPLOYMENT NETWORK do not expect that you will work for at least 6 months and earn at or above the substantial gainful activity level by the time of your second 12-month progress review.
- We did not receive a completed first 12-month progress review form from ABC EMPLOYMENT NETWORK telling us that you met the requirements above.

How This Decision Affects Your Ticket and Your Disability Benefits

We realize you may need more time to achieve your employment goals. This decision will not affect your participation in the Ticket to Work Program at this time. We encourage you to use your Ticket by working with ABC EMPLOYMENT NETWORK to make more successful progress towards your employment goals.

As a reminder, SSA does not conduct the Medical Continuing Disability Review if you are using your ticket. However, if we find that you are not using your ticket, SSA may conduct a medical review of your case. If you still meet the disability rules, your benefits may continue.

Your Next Review

The next time we review your case we will look at your progress from March 1, 2005 through March 1, 2006. We will need the following:

- Proof of work and earnings at or above the substantial gainful activity level for at least 3 months out of any 12 month period beginning March 1, 2002; and
- The expectation from your provider that you will work and earn at or above the substantial gainful activity level for at least 6 months out of any 12 month period beginning March 1, 2006.
